

GP Earnings

NHS England requires that the net earnings of doctors engaged in the practice is publicised, and the require disclosure is shown below. However, it should be noted that the prescribed method for calculating earnings is potentially misleading because it takes no account of how much time doctors spend working in the Practice, and should not be used to form any judgement about GP earnings, nor to make any comparison with any other Practices.

All GP practices are required to declare the mean earnings (e.g. average pay) for GPs working to delivery NHS services to patients at each practice

The average pay for GPs working at Park House Medical Centre in the last financial year was £67,351 before tax, National Insurance, pension and medical legal insurance. This is for 2 full time GPs, 3 part time GPs, 1 full time Salaried GP and 1 full time locum post.
